Subject: GridCtrl changed add row behavior

I've noticed when updating to a more recent U++ and using HomeBudget that the behavior when adding new rows has changed. Focusing seems weird and wrong to me. Also "Accept" and "Reject" buttons don't seem to always be aware of adding items like they used to be.

Don't know if these changes are intentional or not, but previous behavior was better. And why doesn't the default value for a category get applied when creating a new expanse and selecting the category for it?

And yes, I have been using HomeBudget for a little bit of home budgeting. Expenses are killing me .
