Hi. I found a bug in the IDE. It is not so annoying .

How to test:

Open normally the IDE.(with a package selected)

Select File->Set main package...

From assembly select another assembly

From package list select a package

Press cancel

Back in IDE click on your current package and see that your files have disappeared.

If you made any modification to files these get saved but when try to build and run it run the last version of executable(because project is not selected).

Visual example:
