
Subject: Re: U++ PR or findability, if yes - how?
Posted by fudadmin on Thu, 09 Mar 2006 06:59:56 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

if you google: "c++" the result is:

Quote:

C++ Language Tutorial

Complete tutorial from cplusplus.com that covers from basics up to object oriented programming.
www.cplusplus.com/doc/tutorial/ - 16k - Cached - Similar pages

cplusplus.com - The C++ resources network Information, Documentation, Reference, Sourcecodes and Forums about C++ programming language.
www.cplusplus.com/ - 13k - Cached - Similar pages

Visual C++ Developer Center
Product information, technical resources, samples and downloads, news and reviews.
msdn.microsoft.com/visualc/ - 41k - Cached - Similar pages

www.cplusplus.com/doc/tutorial/ has got pagerank 6
msdn.microsoft.com/visualc/ has got pagerang 8

8>6? correct. Why then it comes on top?

one more example.

Give just GUI.

result <http://www.gui.ie/> page rank 6.

microsoft is referenced everywhere. Millions of articles.
According to your logic microsoft pages must be on top of all search results...