Hi,

I vote YES
It would be nice to have some "landing spot" for Upp beginners somewhere on the top of forums page. When I started to use Upp it often took quite a lot of thinking to determine to which category post my questions. Also some of the questions are not about any particular Ctrl or topic but about Upp itself, basic concepts etc.

Best regards,
Honza

Yes. Good idea.

It would have to be in a clear place.

Best regards

well, i guess it would lower the "should i bother the experts with those newbish questions" barrier - at least i felt this way...

doesn´t mean to encourage noise, but it would be a proper place for initial messages like "hi i am johndoe, my background is blah, and now i try hard but got those issues a) b) c)"... which usually wouldn´t fit in one category, absolutely right.

also a fine place to stick in some hints how clocks are ticking in this community.
