Lets say i want to open an child window for dispaying some help context. A help window.

I would like to open this new window by pressing a button on my main TopWindow.

How do i have to create this new Window and how do i have to add some components like labels, buttons, etc. on this new window?

I tried the example with multipe TopWindows but is this the right way to handle windows like this?

I need some basic example on how to create a child windows from a topwindow.

Thanks in advance.

Michael
