Are you going to release the source code for this?

There are few sample applications available using the system. This I think is one of the reasons why it is not being used that much.

Thanks in anticipation

I'll release when the code is upto the standard. I feel that my coding style is not mature. But i'm sure i'll release the code one day. I'm planning to add a password manager and a simple DB client.

When i finish these two additions, i'll surely release the code.

Hm, is 20 sample applications and 50 simpler reference examples not enough?
