slashupp wrote on Sun, 24 February 2019 09:11 some things I find hindering in the ide/editor:
- wordwrapping code-lines - (a new thing) same as above, this is especially irritating because it breaks my concentration since I have to hunt for my code that disappeared from where I was typing, and I cannot find where to turn this OFF

I am not aware about this. Are you sure this happens?

- navigator - same; the editor expands to the right and the navigator should not be there by default, this is a user-choice to be OFF by default

What are we trying to save here? With navigator visible, I have space for 160 columns of text with comfortable text size.

- rescan file while editing - suggest a tool-button for this because lately there is a lag, half-a-sec to a sec, between typing and the character appearing on-screen because of rescanning being busy

Well, this should be perhaps improved. Can you describe the situation more in detail?

(or should I just shut-up & be happy for getting a free tool?)

Be happy that you can configure most of this free tool to your liking?
