Subject: Re: What framework/toolkit have you used before U++?
Posted by mrjt on Fri, 30 Nov 2007 10:53:24 GMT

No .NET option?

For me:
VB, Win32, MFC, .NET, Some Java (hate it!) in that order.

Upp is the first Open Source toolkit I've used and I'm not sure I could go back. People often complain about the lack of documentation, but personally I find the source so clearly readable (even without comments) that this isn't a problem. And you always have to option of copying bits of it an customising it to fit your needs.