Writing "manual" help pages in current TheIDE version, what package should I add them to? I`d like these articles in the future to be "standalone" help articles accessible through "Manual" tab of new version of help system. Of course, after approval and changing of U++ authors.

For now, I`ve made different .tpp file, but didn`t find the way to open it not in view mode (not edit) and don`t know if it will be possible to move these articles to "manual" help mode.
