Sorry about the late reply, I've been holidaying all festive season

The reason for not using XConfigureNotify is that there is no way to identify the final move/resize event (ie when the user has moved the window and then released the mouse button).

I'm pretty sure I have a decent solution to all this though (at least temporarily), and I'm hoping to release my updated/rewritten docking stuff as soon as I get my arse in gear and finish it off.

Happy new year.

James
