Subject: Re: Code reformatter added to TheIDE
Posted by mirek on Wed, 30 Jan 2008 11:51:59 GMT

IMO, license is not a problem. We are redistributing all the code with it. And it is not needed for U++ applications, only for TheIDE.

BTW, even worse issue there is ndisasm, which is GPL.

Speaking about it, I am more worried about the coding style. Astyle code is exactly what U++ approach tries to argue with

Mirek