Subject: Re: CPU_Cores() error
Posted by kodos on Mon, 03 Mar 2008 20:01:50 GMT

luzr wrote on Mon, 03 March 2008 20:11
Quote:
2)
Shouldn't we use the ProcessAffinityMask instead of the SystemAffinityMask to get the available cores?

Maybe... Should these be the samein most cases?

I haven't tested it but I think that they are not the same if you assign the process to an explicit processor with the taskmanager.

And I think the return value of this function should return the cores it can use and not the cores that are in the system..