What would you recommend for robust data storage please?

Depends. In theide, some text format with C lexical basics is preferred (e.g. for .upp files).

Maybe XML.

Is there a way to search for specific "key" values in the stream which might then act as delimiters between classes?

No.

I am getting close to launch and people are testing and already asking for backwards compatibility which I know from experience just leads to more and more complication.

Hehe, I know that pretty well
