Thank you! its worked! I will testing in continuation!

I have a situation: I need to make a server and client application. that in code i need decide where it will execute (server or client). Only application server can communicate with DB server, but client is connected with server. Server and client application need because:

1. The client station can/may be not so performance as server station.
2. Connection from DB server and application server can be more speedily.

If I wrong tell me please how is correct! How I can create this?

Thank you!

John!

P.S. The ultimate ++ is the most impression me!
