It always was "All static" on Windows ...

In linux, of course. Now it is "shared" in debug and "static" in release.

hmmm... where is it in .bm file ?

Also, it looks like we will have to drop to -O2, as latest deep trouble with new Ubuntu appears to be compiler optimizer bug... (but still investigating).

Done in latest svn and deb build. I added -fno-inline-functions to O3 optimization, taking of only the offending option.
Btw, as I told in other forum, if you want to build directly from svn you must change manually the option in build methods.

Ciao
