So do you agree with this strategical approach:
"Structure of upp web and Pages(their titles, content, paragraphing with H tags,keywords) must be written, first of all, having in mind -how people and search engines will search for this"?

Then we do not have to care about H1, but rather about being referenced from other websites. (With the exception of "GUI toolkit")

This part is still the same - if you want us to go up (in google pagerank and popularity), you need references. One way how to get references is to write and submit articles. As simple as that.
