Well, looks like this topic became a little bit cold, I guess it is time to revive it. (Meanwhile, the sponsorship materialized, so the thing is really actual).

So

September 20-21 2008

was relatively OK date for anybody interested, correct?

Based on this thread I would expect quite small event, something like 10-15 people coming.

I think the one good idea would be to present some some existing commercial projects to show how everybody is using U++.

I would certainly like to demonstrate that boring municipal agenda, because after all, it was the original cause of U++ development
