Subject: #include "_uses_.h"

Posted by mirek on Mon, 18 Aug 2008 18:30:16 GMT

I have got a strange idea.

Maybe, after editing in package organizer, we could create _uses_.h file in each package directory and automatically generate a list of include of used packages there.

That way you would not have to add individual #includes after adding a package to the project, just keep single #include in main .h.

Anyway, is not this going too far?

Mirek