

---

Subject: Re: Documentation how-to...

Posted by captainc on Wed, 27 Aug 2008 16:43:48 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

No problem, more to come soon. Good job on the automatic updating of the site too. One thing I think would be really useful is web interface like the one from gotapi.com where you have the tree-view list on the left with a search and the documentation in the main content area. It allows for easy navigation.

Quote:(not sure what form in this article is better...)

Hmm, good question. I wrote it that way to be a little more verbose and show off some of the other functions available. The implicit way may be better for beginners though; it is definitely simpler to read. I could try to link to the proper documentation for Format, and I guess I should at least explain why they would use AsString; beginners may not understand the Value type.