

---

Subject: Re: Documentation how-to...

Posted by mirek on Tue, 09 Sep 2008 11:37:57 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

cbpporter wrote on Mon, 08 September 2008 23:10

I have two suggestion though:

1. Eliminate all the OS specific, more precisely WinAPI specific members from the interface. You can define a WinLONGToSize in another OS specific header and include it only when needed and only in .cpp files.

Sometimes it is OK, but sometimes it is just too complicated.

But I will think about it anyway.

Note that in documentation, this should be noted similarly to "preconditions" of container methods.

Mirek

---