I tried to install and use a svn client to do it by myself but without instructions it is not evident how to do it... at least for me, so I stopped to fight with svn.

Don't give up with svn, it's a strong piece of software

Today I was able to get in some weird way the full update and compile a new ide. Now I believe to stop to suffer because theide has an automatic way to update the distro.

But I am afraid that the sync works in the two way... I want only download and not update spoiling your work . Can I use this feature without problem?
