I installed MSC on a computer today and I'm getting a very strange issue with a compiled TheIDE. The new code browser area is replaced with a Button, and the bottom part is wrong also. Recompiling with MINGW removes the issue.

Here's a screen shot:

And I've found another issue. Using auto detect build methods for MSC8 fails when TheIDE is run under a limited user account. If someone points me to the code that does the auto detecting I can check out what operation can't be executed because of lack of privileges.
