Hi,

attached you can find a little example using overloading of Key
with an EditField.

Is this consistent with common using in upp?

But there is still one point which doesn't work as I want. How can I remove the Focus from the editfield? it should to be shown as you see it when the gui is startet, with focus on no element or the focus should be moved to the next element. In this case you see the difference because it is aligned right in the code.

regards

reinhard
