If I had to choose between the 2 I would definitely choose the subpixel picture, and it really looks OK from a "normal" distance. I just thought there could be a problem because the line left from the text "white" is blue and the pixels left and right from that line are nearly perfect white and I thought that could be a problem.

But it really looks great.