Hi,
Until now I've made two projects for University which are semi-open-source(not everyone have access to sources, but some do), small utilities to solve my problems(this is private software) and one program (for a non-profit organization) which right now I've released as freeware but I'm thinking to extend it and maybe in near future to sell it to other organizations. So, I'm doing open-source, freeware, private, commercial software. For which one to vote? I think this poll should be extended to fit all categories of software.
