If you post a path, I will include it.

Anyway, this is really simple utility function used for very special reasons. I am content with it as it works now.

In fact, originally I have written it only for my one time own purposes, only including it because it does not really affect anything else and might be useful for others.

Ok. I'll work up a patch.

(Maybe I should have uploaded it to bazaar?)

I think you did right. It will be of help to many, many people. I don't think it will be hard to make it work properly on different databases.
