Posted by chickenk on Tue, 21 Jul 2009 11:40:43 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hi Mirek,

I am using the latest svn revision (r1439).

I am not sure this is the correct place for this post, which is related to fonts under unix.

A. In the Navigator bar

Some special characters miss some space to be aligned correctly. It can be seen on the screenshot below (look at the '>' and '<' characters. I also saw that problem on '&' characters).

B. Standard and underlined characters not the same width

When using a standard app (TestScatter2 in this example), pressing Alt underlines the characters used for shortcuts. Since the new Draw and fonts refactoring, it seems the underlined characters don't always have the same width than previously non-underlined one. Again, 2 screenshots to illustrate (open them in 2 tabs and switch between them to see the problem):

Normal
Pressing Alt key

Thanks for having a look!

regards,
Lionel

File Attachments
1) navig_bar_fonts.png, downloaded 974 times
2) app_normal.png, downloaded 560 times
3) app_alt.png, downloaded 554 times