Ok so I realise that I'm talking to myself but in the coming months/years this thread will become increasingly relevent. Why not join it now and be seen as visionary

The Nokia N900 appears to be heralding the shift of smartphones to full-featured Linux OS. This means that UPP will be very relevent to this market (doesn't it?).

Up to this I've been thinking that for the mobile platform I will need to recode my apps for Android but perhaps not....
