being a upp newbie, i initially wondered why i couldn´t call the designer on layout files (version 1820). now i got the issue:

displaying contents of a .lay file, layout designer switches to text view when i compile and run my package pressing [F5] key. just tested: also happens using the menu command "debug/run (in debugger)" is this a bug, or how can i switch back to layout view? i found no way other than restarting ide.

in addition, having closed the running application, the debugger still hangs on the final commands, requiring me to jump out of functions [shift-F11] 2 times to really close the app.
