Hello MADIC

mr_ped is right.

However if you want to work with MinGW you can:

- Disable multi threading flag (MT). Standard MinGW will probably work
- Compile with MinGW-TDM (<http://www.tdragon.net/recentgcc/>). This is more advanced than the official MinGW, the install is very easy (with installer) and it has demonstrated to work well. I advise you to use it.

Best regards

Koldo
