Hummm

I practically never compile under windows but after looking quickly on the net I found this:

 http://msdn.microsoft.com/en-us/library/aa983368%28VS.80%29. aspx

It looks like MSC9 doesn't like my very simple boost project with no source files.
Maybe adding a dummy.cpp file that does nothing could solve this (just to make the compiler happy).

I'm gonna take a look at this windows problem.

Anybody else have ideas about this ?
