

---

Subject: Re: RichEditCtrl
Posted by rylek on Fri, 26 Mar 2010 20:45:53 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Hi there!

I'm afraid the main problem with RTF image import lies in the fact that Word normally stores images as Windows metafiles; even plain raster images are formally wrapped into metafile streams. Therefore I'm afraid that to implement RTF image import under Linux, a necessary precondition would be to write a metafile interpreter in U++; while I believe this to be an important step extending the range of U++ usability, it's not a thing I can promise to write tomorrow.

Regards

Tomas

---