An example can be seen in VC++ 2005 by going to Tools->Options->VC++ Directories and look at the list on the right hand side.

Basically, the ArrayCtrl supports inline editing, but each cell at the time of being edited also shows a small button at the right edge.

Thanks

I don't know what is the easiest but the first idea: I would try to make like a container control consisting of Edit and Button and try to add it to a column...
