
Subject: Re: NEW: Tree<T> container
Posted by mrjt on Fri, 30 Jul 2010 12:15:05 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

That does make more sense. Though IMO it's not much use as a general storage class since it will only work with classes specifically designed for it. If I want a tree of Rects I don't really want to have to wrap them in a Node class.
