Well here is corrected table, but only with the IsUpper field. There should be exactly 38 differences. I'll recheck the table once more, but everything should be OK. Anyway, nobody noticed that something was wrong before, and I doubt that this correction will impact code for better of worse, unless you are doing an Unicode unit test or live in a very specific part of the world and are using U++ .

I don't have access to SVN right now and I'll be out of town during the weekend so I'm putting it here.
