2. You can use the field name in the first while loop. Fetching after the last record fetched returns false. Your second while loop will not run.

I know this. In my example I just want to show that I wish to use the field name, and not the filed index. But I don't found any way for do it.

I need only one while, but i want to get values using something like: `Value var = sql["FieldName"];` and not on number; or, how to get the corresponding index, from the `FieldName`.

Ok for the answer 1), but this mean that, time by time I can only open one database?

Thanks.
