

---

Subject: Re: Which is the biggest drawback of U++ "unpopularity"?

Posted by mirek on Thu, 27 Apr 2006 22:39:30 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

prof wrote on Thu, 27 April 2006 16:19 I'm XP user and I use "windows classic" theme. I think that these look better than TheIDE. Maybe, it's just due to colorful icons and fancy toolbar grips I used to?

Well, this was the first "visual style" created and I guess we are 99% equivalent there.

However, perhaps you are really speaking about how TheIDE icons look like - OK, there are drawbacks based on our art skills

Please, note also that many of screenshots you have posted are in fact NOT using "classic theme". E.g. that svn screenshot has quite alternative appearance. In "classic theme", menus should look like menus in the windows explorer.

(And yes, toolbar grips are on the list

Mirek

---