No, this happens in any case (for new UPP windows too) whith every UPP app, but sometimes it's hard to notice.

It's only delay.

I'll say it again, the issue arises on an different computers running Windows XP. Native WinAPI apps or e.g. apps that use QT don't have this issue. Perhaps it is not necessary to pay your attention, but I would like to UPP application looked more natively in Windows.

Does not anyone notice this issue? I noticed this around 3 years ago when I first meet whith UPP. This is a wonderful framework!
