I found a better way to see this issue.

Download this app (it slows down the CPU):

<http://www.cpukiller.com/cpukil305.zip>

install it, set the "Slow Down Factor" (I set it on 95%), start slowing down CPU. Now, this issue will be visible very well.

I observed as native applications and applications written using QT. They did not have this defect.

If no one will confirm this issue, I will perform yet another experiment: I will install a clean copy of Windows XP SP3 Eng in VirtualBox and try to notice this issue there.
