By the way, I noticed there are now numbers in the revision comments like RM #nn. Does this mean that it is better to book issues like this one, somewhere else? Like an issue tracker? I am not aware U++ has one. But if that's the case, I will certainly use it if that makes things easier for you.

Well, I can give you Redmine access. Send me email and real name via PM.

Anyway, I put those numbers there because RM then links back from tasks to svn revision.
