

---

Subject: Re: Dialog boxes : why struc instead of class ?

Posted by jibe on Fri, 18 Mar 2011 14:01:16 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Ok, so nothing extraordinary !

It's just confusing for C++ developpers who learned to use class instead of struc, to be able to make an overridden class if necessary... But it's true that it's not very useful with the dialog boxes of an application !

Thanks for this explanation

---