There are several threads on Upp/Python.
I am into Python, C/C++ (Upp) and Java so my head hurts sometime just keeping things straight.

One thing in Python is the Help is very good. Each function has a very simple example. Relating this to what would be useful in Upp for this problem could be:
int leftPosition = GetRect.left;

Assist->Search word in Help Topics->"GetRect"

First a person needs to know to search for "GetRect" rather than "rect".
Then for the enum GetRect.left rather than trying rect[0] or ???

Upp is very good but sometimes it is hard to find how to solve what should a simple problem.
