found this via google listed on some website as a free GUI RAD, but the screen shots show an IDE rather than a RAD tool.

I've been programming backends and console apps for years and recently been wanting to try my hands at the front end for a future app I plan to write. Unfortunately the level of front end programming I need, the tutorials don't cover and no open source project comes close to what I want to do so I cant learn from them.

Other RAD tools I've tried have failed and I'm almost at the point where I may have to pay $$$$ for the tools I need.

And what I need is a form based RAD that will allow me to tie backend functions to actions on the form, writing the code for the front end as it goes, then allowing me to modify that code.

Call me lazy but this would be ideal.
