Thanks Lance but I was looking for an easy and understandable way of doing it.

Usually "\n" will create a new line.

I have no idea what the square brackets are for in this context.

void About()
{
    PromptOK("[A5 uWord]&Using [*^www://upp.sf.net^ Ultimate`+`] technology.")& + "[2 Which excels!]");
}
```

Just tinkering found that & is for a new line.
Without the 2 or a space it throws an error.

What should have been 10 minutes with an example turned into a couple hours.

Neil
