Subject: Re: svn mirror lost (and being recreated)
Posted by kohait00 on Fri, 13 May 2011 10:22:59 GMT

well, yesterday, the svn (not the google mirror) was down almost all day. after it was all up again i cloned the mirror and it was working (the culprit commit 328 was properly set again).

haven't you done any maintanance?

BTW: https://gitorious.org/upp/upp is now a new git repo based on the google mirror. this is what people will get when they clone the google svn. same history now.
i will be pushiing things in rather frequent basis..someday maybe automatic (when my server is running again). maybe it's worth to publish it as git repo again. dont you want to have an account in gitorious? you could have commit right there as well, just to try out new stuff...