I don't think so. The idea is very interesting. And seems to be fast and without many bugs.
All old applications work very well.

Yep, if you don't mind to use 6-7 mouse clicks when former just a couple were enough, and also if you don't mind to have to use keyboard or some 4-5 clicks just to switch windows.....
I think unity is perfect for a browser-mail-facebook usage, but absolutely not for productivity.
