fudadmin wrote on Mon, 19 September 2011 16:52 Honza, but these workarounds are only needed for external projects? Or do you see them used for your own projects? Yes, I only needed this because I wanted to use unmodified 3rd party sources (to allow simple updates in future).

fudadmin wrote on Mon, 19 September 2011 16:52 Also, for external projects there is a possibility to create separate packages for different platforms... That is probably the cleanest solution - I just didn't think of it at the time. Although it might feel a bit strange when creating separate package for each platform containing just a few files...
