3. further and proper extension of U++ for python [w]
What exactly does this mean?

actually, python scripts are already runnable and useable from upp. see `bazaar/PyConsoleCtrlTest`, this is straight forward.

the proper interaction / bridge Python <-> upp

- * calling upp from python scripts,
- * invoking python from upp code
- * exporting the upp infrastructure, namely Value, Callbacks, CtrlCore, CtrlLib to a certain degree is still a starter and needs some continuation. for web dev. POV, im not into it
