
Subject: Re: user 'Value' [FEATURE REQUEST]
Posted by mr_ped on Thu, 25 May 2006 19:28:40 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Of course the userValue can be private/protected, then add some public methods to work with the value, if you want to hide that data from direct access.
I think the default constructor should be enough for everyone (in this special case, not in general).
