Subject: Re: [contribution] add language panel on ultimatepp.org to top

I just uploaded the changes. It should look like this:

It would be great if you could compile and run the uppweb and check it in as many browsers as possible. I only tested it in chromium and w3m. The switcher requires JavaScript, if you have JS turned off, the box should be either invisible (for CSS aware browsers) or it will just contain the name of the current language (this will probably happen only in the text-based browsers, like w3m or lynx).

Let me know how it works and whether you like it
